

Hyprevention raised 4.5MUS$ for its development in the US.

Hyprevention has developed the STRUTPLASTY® Platform intended to reinforce bone in case of fractures or impending fractures. The technology is protected by 25 patents, including in the United States of America and Europe. Two products are currently on the market and the platform will be expanded to address more anatomical sites.

In 2020, V-STRUT® Vertebral Implant obtained FDA (510K) and, created the U.S. subsidiary, Hyprevention Inc. in the next year, in order to launch V-STRUT® Vertebral Implant sales in the U.S. market. The CEO, Cécile Vienney, moved to New-York City to develop and manage the subsidiary, closer to the products users. The first clinical cases are very promising.

The funds raised with Yellowstone Holding and existing shareholders. All the shareholders and founders strongly believe in the technology and management. Chan-Yuan (Branford) Lu from Yellowstone said "There are over 60 million people suffer from vertebral compression fractures in Asia. Due to lack of effective and affordable medical devices on the market, the doctors still apply the tradition vertebroplasty treatments on patients. We believe V-STRUT® device has huge market potential in the near future."

The proceeds will be used for US deployment of the company. Post-market clinical studies will be conducted to continuously show the high performance of the products to address real clinical needs.

"STRUTPLASTY® Technology is unique on the market. Hyprevention is talented to develop easy to use products with a high clinical benefit thanks to a good understanding of biomechanics and users' needs. We are very happy by the high interest we get from the US practitioners and are glad to build a success story" says Cécile Vienney, CEO.
